9. Validating course contents based on the expectations of epistemic communities, professional associations and of potential employers related to the field of study.

International and European language policies seek to address the growing needs of a labor and a scientifically internationalized research market, and as such, foreign languages for academic and specific purposes are represented throughout many university centers

- in the country (in vocational fields such as business, law, medicine, computer science, tourism, but also in the courses which make use of the scientific discourse in various fields – chemistry, physics, education sciences, social and communication sciences etc.). For reference, see the specific departments and the foreign language centers in Bucharest, Timişoara, Iaşi, Tîrgu-Mureş, Alba Iulia, Oradea etc.
- abroad (particularly regarding the academic learning competences and socio-professional communication), where all universities have centres that specialize in practical areas of the specialized discourse, playing an essential role in creating an instructional and academic culture. For instance, universities such as: Harvard, Washington, North Carolina, Southampton, Darmouth, Essex, Leeds, Graz, Central European University, etc.

The content of the teaching activity can develop those skills and competences that are specific to academic learning and research activities, in the context of higher education internationalization.

10. Assessment (examination)

Type of activity	10.1 Assessment criteria	10.2 Assessment methods	10.3 Weight in the final grade
10.4 Lecture	• Active participation and engagement in the course activity • Timeliness • Accuracy, fluency, adequacy to register (oral and written) • Efficient acquisition and use of English for academic and specific purposes	• Active participation and engagement	10%
		• Final written exam	50%
10.5 Seminar	• Active participation and engagement in the seminar activity • Timeliness • Accuracy, fluency, adequacy to register (oral and written) • Efficient acquisition and use of English for academic and specific purposes • Timely task completion	• Seminar project work (individual/team)	40%
10.6 Basic performance standard
The students will be able to: • Make use of listening, reading, speaking and writing skills in general and specific purpose contexts • Apply individual learning strategies in developing academic reading and in improving specialised vocabulary through printed and electronic resources • Write academic texts (articles, essays, reports etc) • Present learning products orally • Communicate the content of individual and collaborative academic work.
