7. Course objectives (derived from the acquired specific skills)

7.1 General objective of course	This course proposes a revaluation of the Gothicism permeating the postmodern imaginary and an exploration of various strands of New Gothic sensibility in several contemporary British novels authored by: Angela Carter, Salman Rushdie, Marina Warner, Jeanette Winterson, Clare Clark, A. S. Byatt, Alasdair Gray, Martin Amis, and Fay Weldon, among others. Without resorting to the entire apparatus of gothic aesthetics, these novels incorporate a broad range of narrative strategies, atmospheric references and motifs specific to the Gothic. The figure of the monster will be the focus of a four-tiered interpretive paradigm, encompassing the monstrous female, the foreigner, the posthuman and the body politic. Moreover, while traditional Gothic narratives showed the monstrification of the Other, the post-Gothic narratives included in this syllabus resort to archival re-search and open up spaces for what Foucault calls the “insurrection of subjugated knowledges” about monsters and what they represent.
7.2 Specific objectives	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Understanding and reflecting critically on the resurgence of Gothic in contemporary British fiction Analysing literary works pertaining to this strand of contemporary British fiction
